Many technical issues prop up if a website and/or app is not created and/or maintained properly. REALTORS'

Industry stakeholders are of the view that the secondary real estate market in India has started showing signs of recovery and become one of the most preferred choices for homebuyers, after being hit by the demonetisation drive.

Post demonetisation there was a significant dip in the realty activity in both primary and secondary market. However, in last six to nine months secondary market along with primary market has seen revival as the end users who had delayed their decisions are now seeking projects which are ready to move in or nearing completion as they have minimum risk attached against them.

SAMIR JASUJA, Founder & CEO, PropEquity

The reason the secondary real estate market is improving is because like the stock markets even real estate market is cyclical in a way. Markets are bound to improve in time and now that RERA and demonetisation are no longer novelties, acertain stability and confidence has come in the minds of buyers.

PRASHANT SOLOMON, MD, Chintels India & Trussum; CREDAI-NCR

The secondary market in India has started recovering after being hit by demonetisation as the secondary market is showing traction and market is definitely recovering particularly in primary/established areas in metros and tier 1 cities. The introduction of RERA, GST and REITs will add to transparency in the section and will support the demand.

GAURAV KASHYAP, Chief Executive Officer; Cherry Hill Interiors

After a long time of sector depression, the number of transactions in secondary market has increased. The demonetisation had put a hold on the money power and sentiments of the consumers in terms of economy stability. The transparency brought by the newly implemented law has strengthened the market compared to the past.
